I knew my friend when he was in his late teens and first 20s. We used to go around talking with different people, playing music, going to parties, meeting and having fun. We got along very well and I always enjoyed being around him.

Later on, when I was about 25 or 26, I started to notice that he was getting more and more interested in women. He was always saying things like, "I love women, they're so beautiful," and he would always tell me stories about his friends who had dates with very attractive women.

I was starting to feel a little jealous of him, because I knew that he was meeting new people all the time and I was starting to feel a little left out. I started to wonder if I was going to be able to find someone who would love me just the way I am.

Eventually, I decided to talk to him about my feelings. I told him how I was starting to feel and how I was starting to feel a little left out. He told me that he understood and that he would try to make me feel better.

Over the next few months, we started to see each other more and more. We would go out on dates, go to parties, and just hang out together. I started to feel like I was really in love with him.

In the end, we got married and have been together ever since. I'm glad that I was able to talk to him about my feelings and that he was able to help me feel better.
nurse to help me oops & she showed me how to breath things out. My mother had come to visit me & was very nervous & I was in hard labour at the time. When I entered the labour ward & heard this woman screaming, I thought, "Lord help me to do that." The labour got really hard and I was determined to do it. My husband & I held on to the top of my hospital bed during my contractions. Then the nurse showed me how to breathe & this really relieved a lot. Jeremy at this time was busy playing in another city in England & so he was not able to be there. The delivery went very well, the baby was very good, management was difficult, but I managed to do it. I was only 16 and pregnant for the first time, so I was unable to manage my own life. In fact, in the hospital they thoight I was too young, and I had to be placed in the care of a nurse. We were very happy, no problems one we were out of the hospital. When I went to the delivery room to buy nappies or anything for the baby, so I learned how to survive in that way with him & he was a very good baby. I was the only person in that sphere of life that had a child and was so young. It even shocked the members of the band. They thought that Jeremy was a bit irresponsible! At that time too we got into trouble, when I was 15-16 while touring America, into smoking dope & LSD. It was an experience for a while but became a dead-end street.

We finally moved out of little apart­ment, Jeremy's parents went to the attack to arrange our marriage. We got married in a little country church with just Jeremy's parents, I married Jeremy's older sister, Jeremy and my sister was babysitting. We then went to London to live in a little bed-sitter, very small but very cozy. We were very happy, no problem once we were away from our parents. It seemed a natural thing to me to have a baby, although I had never held one in my whole life. In fact, in the hospital they didn't want me to breast-feed because they thought I was too young, and I had to insist on it. Nevertheless, I did manage to breast-feed, and I managed for some time. We continued to live in London with Dicon who was a very good baby, very good toddlers but alas (re­cording to the system's standards) I got them relieved a lot. So he was not able to be there. The delivery went very well, the baby was very good, management was difficult, but I managed to do it. I was only 16 and pregnant for the first time. Jeremy was very much of a girl for my age (17) to have a baby, and how it helps stop breast cancer & other things. At this time too we got into trouble, when I was 15-16 while touring America, into smoking dope & LSD. It was an experience for a while but became a dead-end street.

When Dicon was 6 months old I went to America with Jeremy & Dicon on a tour that bands take to different cities. About all it is in hotels & airplanes & people. Jeremy wanted me to go, so I went with Dicon, and I learned a lot, too. Sometimes we would be in places where it was minus 10 below zero with the wind & everything & we couldn't get out of the hotel room to buy nappies or anything for the baby, so I learned how to survive in that way with him & he was a very good baby. I was the only person in that sphere of life that had a child and was so young. It even shocked the members of the band. They thought that Jeremy was a bit irresponsible! At that time too we got into trouble, when I was 15-16 while touring America, into smoking dope & LSD. It was an experience for a while but became a dead-end street.

We finally moved out of little apart­ment, Jeremy's parents went to the attack to arrange our marriage. We got married in a little country church with just Jeremy's parents, I married Jeremy's older sister, Jeremy and my sister was babysitting. We then went to London to live in a little bed-sitter, very small but very cozy. We were very happy, no problem once we were away from our parents. It seemed a natural thing to me to have a baby, although I had never held one in my whole life. In fact, in the hospital they didn't want me to breast-feed because they thought I was too young, and I had to insist on it. Nevertheless, I did manage to breast-feed, and I managed for some time. We continued to live in London with Dicon who was a very good baby, very good toddlers but alas (re­cording to the system's standards) I got them relieved a lot. So he was not able to be there. The delivery went very well, the baby was very good, management was difficult, but I managed to do it. I was only 16 and pregnant for the first time. Jeremy was very much of a girl for my age (17) to have a baby, and how it helps stop breast cancer & other things. At this time too we got into trouble, when I was 15-16 while touring America, into smoking dope & LSD. It was an experience for a while but became a dead-end street.

When Dicon was 6 months old I went to America with Jeremy & Dicon on a tour that bands take to different cities. About all it is in hotels & airplanes & people. Jeremy wanted me to go, so I went with Dicon, and I learned a lot, too. Sometimes we would be in places where it was minus 10 below zero with the wind & everything & we couldn't get out of the hotel room to buy nappies or anything for the baby, so I learned how to survive in that way with him & he was a very good baby. I was the only person in that sphere of life that had a child and was so young. It even shocked the members of the band. They thought that Jeremy was a bit irresponsible! At that time too we got into trouble, when I was 15-16 while touring America, into smoking dope & LSD. It was an experience for a while but became a dead-end street.

Jeremy & Fiona & their 7 "super-duper" — helping to change the World through their music at WMH we do have a lot of fellowship, a lot of sharing, & the children are very fortunate to be able to partake of this. As I said before, it's many for our little ones to share & stay with one another, even make love if they can, they're all small and they can manage it. But when they're 10, 11, 12, & on, our children like to share with the adults. I found some adults in our family are very helpful, very loving, very patient towards our children, & will take time to really help them & love them & even teach them. In fact, I haven't really heard of a bad experience in our family with our children sharing. I have talked a lot with the children about our own testimony & I treat them as adults, because, although it was a long time ago when I was that age, 12-13, I would have loved to have been in the situation we are now. If I feel that almost all the brethren are really understanding, very gentle, very loving, there is no need to fear for the children, & they should be really free to love and share with the other brethren just as we do. When they are young, when they start their period, that's the testing time, how much can you trust the Lord, how much do you just believe His promises, His blessings, etc? Being worried like our parents, the older generation are watching us, their grandchildren, or not counting, only wanting to fly with the spirit, with this love, helping the children to be really free, & helping them to bring forth fruit.

I feel that the best thing for our children is to be wide opened to the Lord's work. We are usually receiving, helping, with drama parts, or witnessing, and helping to teach the younger ones, & helping with our church work, the younger children teaching them.

Dicon no longer needs much schooling & can help to teach the younger ones, & works on the KP newsletter & scripts & types them up. We try to have him use his talents for the Lord's work. We are trying to be free, but he will sometimes pick up a book, which I do allow if it's free time & he's read the little one, too. He is still in the school work to catch up, but her min­istries of recording & witnessing do come first. She is a good little mother & is keeping a lot of projects to do all on her own. When she's free. I do not believe children of this age should play time as children, but rather freetime as the adults.

They do tend to get noisy & sensitive sometimes, but this usually happens when they are not busy. I try to encourage them to be as adults and don't allow much adolescent bad behavior.

People say teenage years are the difficult years, but I never had much problem myself because I was married & a mother at a young age and had plenty to do & keep me occupied. Even now for our girls they are not busy when they don't really go thru much of an adoles­cent stage.

God bless you. I hope this in some help like the training of our children. There's not long.

Do you realize that your children are going to be flaming teenage protest & teachers & leaders by this time - the greatest force on earth - no force in the world has ever seen? I love you.